The Hopkins Club of Beijing is home to alumni of the Johns Hopkins University and all its affiliated schools and programs, whether they are living in Beijing or just passing through. We aim to foster and strengthen the Johns Hopkins community in Beijing by regularly holding events where alumni can meet and get to know each other. We also maintain close contact with Johns Hopkins University, its affiliated schools and other alumni associations in Beijing.

The JHU Beijing Club was founded by former Hopkins Nanjing Center American Co-director Elizabeth Knup. At the end of 2005, the Hopkins Club of Beijing Executive Committee was formed to oversee the day-to-day affairs of the club, while Elizabeth continues to be involved with the club in an advisory role.

Over the past year, the club has organized numerous alumni gatherings, including monthly happy hour, reception for JHU professors, knowledge sharing events, New Years dinners, culture tours and an IR schools happy hour. These events have helped ensure that the JHU community in Beijing remains strong.

The new committee will continue to organize regular happy hours, invite VIP alumni to hold knowledge sharing events, and interlink with other alumni communities in Beijing. The committee is devoted to make the club home for all JHU alumni in Beijing.
