Grand Voyage: February 17 - March 24, 2013

NO SINGLE SUPPLEMENT for Solo Travelers

The voyages described in this brochure are to an “undiscovered” Africa, an Africa of souks and bazaars, of vanished empires and colonial plantations, of pristine tropical islands, lush rain forests, and immense, starkly beautiful deserts. And since this is Africa, there is wildlife—an astonishingly rich variety of wildlife. All of this, and much more, you will find along the shores of West Africa.

It’s ironic that West Africa, once busy with the ships of explorers, colonists, traders, and missionaries, is rarely visited by contemporary travelers. With these voyages that encompass the continent’s entire coast between the Cape of Good Hope in South Africa and the Strait of Gibraltar, we hope to change that.

In fact, traveling by ship is the only way such unique journeys are possible, as air and land connections between South Africa and North Africa are logistically complex and time-consuming. Aboard ship, you unpack once and travel in perfect comfort.

One of our goals is to introduce you to the many different “Africas”: the noble Imperial cities of Morocco; the handsome colonial monuments of Luanda, Angola; the lush forests and wildlife sanctuaries of The Gambia, Sierra Leone, and Ghana; the idyllic islands of São Tomé and Príncipe; the world-class wineries of South Africa.

DISCOVER the UNKNOWN SHORES of AFRICA

These voyages give you rare opportunities to get to know the people of Africa. We'll meet local artists and artisans, fishermen and farmers, wildlife park rangers, and the staff of the Tacugama chimpanzee rescue program. To deepen your understanding of contemporary Africa, we will also arrange discussions with local leaders.

Like you, we are aware of the demands group travel can make on local environments. That is why we travel only on a small ship with a limited number of participants. "Traveling small" enables us to visit sites that would be out of bounds to the thousands of passengers from massive cruise ships. When we visit a traditional village, a wildlife park, or a cultural monument, we do not overwhelm it, and we are careful to minimize as much as possible our impact on the site.

Our ship, the Corinthian, is ideal for this unprecedented voyage. With only 50 spacious suites, many with a private balcony, elegant common areas, superb facilities, expansive promenade decks, and almost as many crew members as guests, Corinthian adds immeasurably to the success of the discovery of West Africa. For most travelers, a voyage to Africa is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. To make the experience even more memorable for you, we have arranged a tremendous variety of exciting destinations, one-of-a-kind happenings, and unforgettable activities. Join us aboard Corinthian to discover the secret treasures of Africa.

EXPERIENCE a NEW WORLD in WEST AFRICA

Many Americans are familiar with the savannas and the wildlife of East Africa. West Africa, however, is virtually unknown to even the most experienced travelers. Yet the natural history of West Africa is more diverse, often more lush, and in many ways as exciting as that of East Africa.

For example, along the coastlands of Morocco you'll find flourishing vineyards and olive and orange groves, while the country's North Sahara region is a vast, dramatic desert. And towering over all are the serrated peaks of the Atlas and Rif mountains.

The low-lying regions of The Gambia are mainly woodlands and wetlands—ideal habitats for birds such as storks, egrets, and crested cranes, as well as primates such as baboons and western red colobus monkeys.

The islands of São Tomé and Príncipe are an unspoiled tropical paradise, a place so rarely visited by travelers that you may have one of the islands' pristine, palm-fringed beaches all to yourself.

The Namib Desert is the oldest desert in the world, formed about 80 million years ago. Yet there is a strange beauty to this stark landscape of sand, stone, and mountain peaks. And it is full of life—including oryxes, ostriches, and black-backed jackals.

Every day on this voyage will bring a new discovery.

THE CULTURE of WEST AFRICA—FAR BEYOND THE ORDINARY

It would be the work of a lifetime to catalog the cultures of West Africa: the indigenous and the colonial, the ancient and the modern, the religious and the secular.

On Lake Togo you'll travel from village to village by pirogue—still the primary form of transportation along the lake—visiting fishermen and farmers who have embraced some aspects of modern life, but still practice the traditions of their ancestors.

The plantations of São Tomé, the distinctive French architecture of Porto-Novo in Benin, the castles along Ghana's Gold Coast, the churches and fortresses of Angola, all recall the days when much of West Africa was in the hands of European nations. Even today, many West Africans can speak French or English or Portuguese in addition to their native language.

We have selected our destinations carefully so you can observe the real life of the people of West Africa—in their villages, their markets, and their workplaces.

RESPONSIBLE TRAVEL

We treasure the places we visit and respect the people and wildlife who live there. We are committed to protecting the environment and the cultural heritage of our destinations, while encouraging economic opportunities for the residents of these priceless, unforgettable regions of the earth. We contribute to organizations that work to protect endangered species, preserve biodiversity, help communities become economically sustainable in an eco-friendly way, and reduce the carbon footprint of travelers to the region.

TRAVEL AND LEARN with a TEAM of EXPERTS

Each voyage is accompanied by an experienced team of expedition staff and lecturers who are intimately familiar with our destinations. Through lectures and discussions, they will introduce you to the culture, history, and wildlife of these unforgettable lands. You will discover the wondrous variety of life in the rain forests, islands, and deserts we visit. You will also experience the rich diversity of cultures shaped by a variety of indigenous peoples and colonial powers, and pursuing a variety of social and political paths since independence. Among the experts you may travel with are:

Following years of experience at the Eastern Cape Nature Conservation, Marius Burger has worked as a herpetologist and faunal specialist with a number of environmental organizations around Africa. He has collaborated with the Smithsonian Institution and WWF-USA in Gabon and the Central African Republic. The author of numerous books, articles, and papers on natural history and conservation topics, he lectures widely and has been a presenter on television nature programs, including on National Geographic and BBC World.

Vincent Resh has been a professor of Environmental Science, Policy and Management at the University of California, Berkeley, since 1975. A world authority on rivers, he was the senior advisor on water and environmental sustainability for the World Health Organization in 11 West African countries for 15 years. He has written and lectured extensively on the areas to be visited on this exciting trip and has led many trips to Africa.

Saskia Travert grew up on Reunion Island, just off the coast of Madagascar. After working for private game lodges in Kruger National Park, she has also been an expedition staff member in Antarctica and the Arctic.

Saskia continues pursuing her lifelong passion for Africa's fauna and flora, having recently worked along the shores of South Africa, Mozambique, Madagascar, and the Seychelles.

Expedition Leader Peter Graham's many years of experience in the travel industry began when he left his native London and first went to sea. Peter worked as Expedition Leader on ships to some of the remotest places in the world. He has traveled to all seven continents and has led previous expeditions to Africa, receiving praise for his knowledge, leadership skills, and charm.

Born and raised in Zimbabwe, Lyn Mair is an ornithologist who has made Cape Town her home for the past 25 years. The senior author and photographer of Seychelles, the Bradt Travel guide, as well as other articles on nature and wildlife, Lyn is familiar with practically every corner of Africa. During our cruises, Lyn will share with travelers her knowledge of and love for the amazing biodiversity of Africa and the places we will visit.

Dr. Donald Wright is Professor of History, Emeritus, at the State University of New York, Cortland. Contributor to The Atlantic World: A History and author of The World and a Very Small Place in Africa, Don recently accompanied a similar voyage to the countries on this itinerary, lecturing on the slave trade, colonial influences, and modern politics. His research and travel in Africa has been sponsored by Fulbright-Hays and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

IN the WAKE of the EXPLORERS

Our voyage follows the route of the first European explorers. In search of a sea route to India, Portuguese navigators followed the coastline of West Africa, each one going a bit further, until in 1498 Vasco da Gama successfully rounded the Cape of Good Hope and came ashore in India.

Among the other explorers we'll learn of along the way are Mungo Park (1771-1806), a Scots surgeon who charted the Niger River; Mary Kingsley (1862-1900), who led expeditions to West Africa and was the first European to explore the remote regions of Gabon; and Alvise de Cadamosto (c1432-c1488), a Venetian who became the first European to reach the mouth of the Gambia River.

IN the REALM of the KINGS of the SKY

According to tradition, the Ogisos, the legendary Kings of the Sky, founded the Benin Empire (1440-1897). In addition to being a military power, Benin was also a center of superb art, particularly ivory sculptures and plaques of bronze and brass. After the arrival of the Europeans in the 15th century, Benin artists created works of art that depicted the newcomers.

In the 1890s, Great Britain pressured the Oba to become a protectorate of the British Empire. When the Oba rejected the proposal, a British military force invaded Benin, overthrew the Oba, and created the colony of Nigeria.

Tuesday, February 26 • LOBITO | BENGUELA | LOBITO, Angola

Take an excursion to Benguela, Angola's cultural capital. Founded by the Portuguese in 1617, Benguela retains much of its colonial architecture, including the church of Nossa Senhora do Pópulo, built in 1748, and the Pálacio do Governo, facing the sea. (B, L, D)

Saturday, March 2 • SÃO TOMÉ, São Tomé and Príncipe

São Tomé was the prized island of the Portuguese from the 15th century until 1975, when it and the nearby island of Príncipe gained independence and formed the Democratic Republic of São Tomé and Príncipe. Call at the capital and main port, also called São Tomé, a picturesque and friendly town featuring colonial architecture. At Tacugama the chimps receive medical treatment and live in semi-wild enclosures where they can form the social units that are essential to a chimpanzee's well-being. The staff and supporters of Tacugama are also active in advocating the enforcement of local and international legislation that bans the trade in chimpanzees.

Suspended more than 130 feet above the ground and 1,000 feet long, the walkway takes you into the habitat of the birds and butterflies, giving you an unforgettable experience.

Travel Dynamics International and the tour's sponsoring organization act solely as agents for the passenger with respect to all transportation, hotel and other tour arrangements. In that capacity, we exercise all reasonable care possible to ensure the passenger's safety and satisfaction, but, we neither assume nor bear any responsibility or liability for any injury, death, damage, loss, accident, delay or irregularity arising in connection with the services of any ship, airplane, train, automobile, motor coach, carriage or other conveyance, or the actions of any third-party, involved in carrying the passenger or in affecting these tours. We are not responsible for damages, additional expenses, or any other losses due to cancellation, delay or other changes in air or other services, sickness, weather, strike, war, civil disturbances, acts or threats of terrorism, travel warnings or bans, termination or suspension of war risks or other carrier insurance, quarantine, acts of God or other causes beyond our control. All such losses must be borne by the passenger, and tour rates provide for arrangements only for the time stated. In the event of cancellation, delay or rescheduling mandated by any of the aforesaid causes beyond our control, the passenger shall have the option of accepting in lieu of the original tour such rescheduled tour or other substituted tour(s) as may be offered by us, or else, receiving a refund of as much of such advance tour expenditures as we are able to recover on the passenger's behalf from carriers, third-party tour vendors, etc., but, we shall not have any obligation or liability to the passenger beyond the foregoing. We reserve the right to make alterations to the tour's itinerary and to substitute hotels, ships, or lecturers if this is required. We reserve the right to cancel, delay, or reschedule any tour prior to departure, and, so long as this is not due to any of the aforesaid causes beyond our control, the passenger shall be entitled to a full refund of all monies paid to that point if he/she so desires. No refund shall be made for any unused portion of any tour. By forwarding their deposit(s), the passenger certifies that he/she and/or their dependents, minors or others covered thereby do not have any mental, physical or other condition of disability that could create a hazard for them or other passengers. We reserve the right to decline to accept or to decline to retain any person as a member of any tour should such person's health, condition or actions adversely affect or threaten the welfare or safety of other passengers or impede the tour. Baggage or valuables brought on the tour shall be transported, handled or stored at the passenger's risk entirely, and, we shall bear no liability or responsibility for any damage or other loss thereto. Passenger tickets are not transferable and are not subject to alteration by the passenger. No suit shall be maintainable against the carrier, or vessel, for any losses, accidents, damages to person, property, personal injury (including death or other types of bodily injury) of the passengers, unless written notice of the claim, with full particulars, is delivered to the carrier or its agents at its office at the port of sailing or at the port of termination within six months from the day when such incident occurred. In no event shall any such suit or any claim against the carrier or vessel for any losses, accidents, damages to person, property, personal injury (including death or other types of bodily injury) of the passenger be maintainable unless such suit is commenced within one year from the day when the incident causing such losses, accidents, damages to person, property, personal injury (including death or other types of bodily injury) of the passenger occurs, notwithstanding any provision of law of any state or country to the contrary. Resolution of any disputes arising hereunder shall be brought within the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York, pursuant to the applicable general maritime law, and applying the applicable general maritime law and Federal maritime statutes.

Rates: Tour costs are based upon current airfares, tariffs, and currency values. While we do everything possible to maintain the listed prices, they are subject to change.

Fuel Supplement: Travel Dynamics International reserves the right to charge a fuel supplement, without prior notice, if the NYMEX oil price exceeds $85 per barrel. This supplement may be charged even if the cruise fare has been paid in full.
