Dear Johns Hopkins Alumni and Friends,

We are pleased to invite you on a unique program offering cultural immersion and international living. This exceptional opportunity is in Aix-en-Provence in the heart of one of the most storied regions in France.

Whether or not this is your first time living abroad, you will feel right at home in Aix-en-Provence. This small, lively city has a 600-year-old university and numerous art and cooking schools. The historic Old Town, where you will reside in your own fully equipped apartment, is known for its golden stone architecture and fountains. Enjoy your independence while knowing that AH1 staff will always be available to support and enhance your experience.

Both first-time students of French and those who simply want to refresh their skills will delight in the language instruction provided by the eminent IS Aix-en-Provence International Language Institute. Classes are small and include students of the same skill level. Unlike most language classes, your studies will include a combination of classroom and outdoor instruction and learning.

Immerse yourself in Provençal customs, history and cuisine through lectures, workshops, activities and individual exploration. Your Lifestyle Guides will help you take the language out of the classroom and into the cobbled streets and tree-lined avenues of the city, where each day you see the practical applications of your newly acquired or enhanced skills in day-to-day settings.

Explore greater Provence with included excursions to the Luberon, setting for Peter Mayle’s modern classic “A Year in Provence,” as well as Avignon and Châteauneuf-du-Pape. All the while, Aix will seduce you with its urban charm, wonderful restaurants and tranquil atmosphere.

Don’t miss this exciting program. We’ve taken out the hassle so all that is left is fun. Space is limited, so make your reservation today!

Sincerely,

Enjoy three weeks’ accommodations in the heart of Aix-en-Provence; includes cable television and broadband Internet access.

Learn French and explore the culture, history, art and cuisine four days each week with your Lifestyle Guide, an instructor from the IS Aix-en-Provence language school.

Experience life abroad as you equip yourself to live independently in France.

Combining Provençal tradition and cosmopolitan flair, Aix-en-Provence beckons travelers and students from all over the world. With one of the oldest universities in France, Aix (pronounced “ex”) gracefully bridges past and present. Ancient monuments mingle with cozy cafés and fascinating museums, all bathed in the dazzling light of Provence.

During the 12th century, Aix became the capital of Provence under the powerful counts of Anjou. During this golden age of art and learning, the city blossomed. Today, art and learning are still associated with Aix.

The Romans, who built a city here because of the strategic location and the thermal springs, called their city Aquae Sextiae. Water has been integral to Aix’s identity ever since. A modern thermal spa stands upon the Roman ruins, and fountains are everywhere. You’ll find many of them along Cours Mirabeau, a majestic, tree-shaded boulevard flanked with elegant 17th- and 18th-century mansions and tempting pâtisseries. It’s no wonder Peter Mayle has called this “the most handsome street in France.”

Aix is a magical place to experience Provençal life. Restaurants abound while local markets overflow with fresh fruit and vegetables. Arts and music festivals add to the joie de vivre, the joy of living. Without a doubt, this is the ideal location to enjoy all that Provence has to offer.
STUDENT LIFE IN AIX

Parlez-vous français? This program includes 12 hours of French lessons per week with a small group taught by local Lifestyle Guides from the IS Aix-en-Provence International Language Institute. Lessons will be on alternate mornings and afternoons. Everyone from beginners to French majors can develop their skills and put them to use in the city. Speaking the local language, you will quickly become adept and comfortable in the lifestyle of Aix.

For more than 35 years, IS Aix-en-Provence has been teaching French to adults who also want to immerse themselves in the French lifestyle. IS Aix-en-Provence has received the French Foreign Language Quality certification, which is bestowed by three French government ministries: Higher Education and Research, Foreign and European Affairs, and Culture and Communication. It also is accredited by EQUALS (Evaluation and Accreditation of Quality in Language Services), an international standards organization.

During your stay, you will connect with the people and culture of Provence through an extensive program of included activities and optional opportunities from cooking and painting classes to inspiring hikes through the Provencal countryside.

When the weekends roll around, there is ample time to explore Provence on your own. Each Friday evening, kick off the weekend with your fellow travelers at a café for drinks and conversation. On Saturdays and Sundays, linger in Aix or venture further afield. On Monday evenings, share your adventures with your fellow travelers over dinners of delicious Provençal cuisine.

At the end of your three week stay, you will come away with enhanced language skills, new friends and memories for a lifetime.

Peter Mayle spent a year here, but you will have three weeks to explore this fascinating region. And, who knows, you may come back for a year. With so much to do and see, it would not be a surprise. As an extended-stay resident, you will come to know Aix intimately. There are three types of public buses to take you almost anywhere you wish to go, but Aix’s tree-lined avenues and narrow cobbled pedestrian streets, lined with dozens of restaurants, cafés and shops, are made for strolling. This is the way to experience all the charm of this town. Throughout your stay, you will find yourself walking these bustling streets just as the locals do. And, along the way, you will find fresh fruit and vegetable markets, fashionable shops and many a café for a pleasant break as the swirl of Provençal life parades along.

Extra credit

To complement your studies and enhance your understanding of Provençal culture and history, we are offering several exclusive activities.

We have arranged for a series of lively lectures provided by local experts to enhance your insight into the region. They are:

• The History of Provence
• The Art of Provence
• The Origin of Wine in France

Local experts will provide you with an assortment of additional learning opportunities. Enjoy hands-on painting classes in a private studio and outside amid the very scenes that inspired painter Paul Cézanne. Cooking classes will be offered in a local school in English to ensure you understand every nuance as you learn to make Provençal and French specialties. Hikes will take you into the lovely Provençal countryside.

THE PROVENÇAL PANTRY

Provence features some of the most distinctive food in all of France. The sunny Mediterranean climate creates a bounty of fruit and vegetables. From artichokes and truffles to figs and apricots, the local produce is flavorful and fresh. You’ll find country cooking at its best, a contrast to the haute cuisine of Paris. Key ingredients, including olives, garlic, herbs and tomatoes, provide the foundation of dishes from the mountains to the sea.

Along the coast, you will find bouillabaisse and salade Niçoise, while inland towns like Aix-en-Provence feature soupe au pistou, a hearty vegetable soup, along with savory stews and meat dishes. Cheese made from goat’s milk, chèvre, is often flavored with a traditional mixture of local herbs. With so much native bounty, Provence is often called the garden of France and healthy and delicious food are one and the same.

The traditional Provençal apéritif is licorice-flavored pastis, made from anise and herbs. On a warm evening, enjoy a glass while playing pétanque, a game similar to bocce. Be sure to try Aix’s famous calissons, sweet iced confections made from local almonds.

LAND OF OLIVES AND WINE

Olives were brought to Provence by the ancient Greeks and have been present in the region ever since. Vineyards crisscross the land from north to south, and local markets overflow with cured olives and virgin olive oil, the base of most dishes. Meals often begin with a tapenade, a savory purée of olives, capers and anchovies, on toast.

The region also produces some excellent wines. At restaurants, vin de la maison, the house wine, arrives in a carafe and is a good value. There are many robust reds, including Châteauneuf-du-Pape, which comes from vineyards planted by the Avignon popes in the 14th century.

MARKETS OF DELIGHT

Les marchés, street markets, are a big part of life in Aix. Locals arrive daily to purchase produce from farmers, mingle with neighbors and catch up on gossip. The markets generally open at 8 a.m. and close in the early afternoon. Aix’s specialty markets are open on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Place des Prêcheurs and Place de la Madeleine have terrific food markets, where you’ll find fruit and vegetables, herbs, cheese, olives and cured meats.

Sunflowers, roses and potted olive trees fill the flower market at Place de l’Hôtel de Ville. And don’t miss the antiques and flea market.

While shopping, the general rule is “ne touchez pas,” don’t touch. Rather, point and let the vendors, some of whom may speak a little English, serve you. They’ll tally your bill on a scrap of paper and hand it to you.

TREASURES OF PROVENCE
INCLUDED EXCURSIONS

THE LUBERON
Spend a wonderful Sunday discovering the villages of the Luberon, the rustic countryside made famous by Peter Mayle’s “A Year in Provence.” Journey through valleys dotted with lavender fields and vineyards, set against a stunning mountain backdrop. Centuries ago, the area’s hilltowns provided strategic fortification against invasion. Today, they speak of a bygone era.

The charming village of Isle-sur-la-Sorgue is famous for its antique market and is also noted as the birthplace of Cubism. Continue to the red-ocher village of Roussillon, where the houses display a stunning palette of russet, gold and orange. Nearby Gordes, perched above olive terraces, boasts views across the valley and an impressive Renaissance château.

AVIGNON AND CHÂTEAUNEUF-DU-PAPE
Spend a day exploring Avignon and Châteauneuf-du-Pape, located in the heart of the Vaucluse. Situated on the banks of the Rhône River, Avignon enjoyed political prominence as the seat of the papacy in the 14th century. As a result, it evolved into a lively hub of arts and learning — a tradition that continues to this day. Visit the fortress-like Palace of the Popes, a medieval masterpiece bristling with ramparts, towers and turrets.

Enjoy lunch in the beautifully preserved medieval town center, a UNESCO World Heritage site. Then continue to the hilltop village of Châteauneuf-du-Pape, where some of France’s finest wines are produced. Explore centuries-old vineyards planted by the Avignon popes, who were great wine lovers. The Châteauneuf-du-Pape blend includes 13 varieties of grape, resulting in rich, full-bodied flavors. At a cave de dégustation, a wine-tasting cellar, we’ll taste some of the robust wines for which the town is known.

A CRAFTY CITY
Many of Aix’s shops and boutiques sell crafts evoking the colors, scents and flavors of Provence. Lavender flowers and essential oil are incorporated into soap and shampoo, perfume and candles. Olives, too, find their way into many items, including blocks of savon de Marseille, the famous soap of Marseille, and bowls and utensils sculpted from olive wood. Thanks to its rich clay soil, Provence has a long tradition of handmade pottery, from colorful tiles to terracotta cookware. You’ll also find terracotta santons, charming Christmas crib figurines in traditional costumes that are made only in Aix. Colorful fabrics, indiennes, are sold by the meter and sewn into furnishings, clothes and sachets containing fragrant Herbes de Provence — all excellent gifts for yourself or your friends back home.

ENTERTAINMENT IN AIX
You won’t have trouble filling your leisure time in Aix, with its many choices for museums and cinema, theater and ballet. Aix is famous for its arts festivals, which are held at various times throughout the year. You may come across a fête, a local Provençal festival. Usually related to saints’ days, traditions or seasons, these festivals often include a church procession followed by a sports competition and a delicious feast. For a pleasant evening, look no further than Aix’s many lively cafés and excellent restaurants. Drink in the history along with an apéritif at Les Deux Garçons, the legendary brasserie on Cours Mirabeau that has drawn figures such as Pablo Picasso, Albert Camus and Edith Piaf since 1792.

OUTDOOR FUN & RELAXATION
Aix-en-Provence is a great walking city, with pedestrian-friendly thoroughfares, parks and gardens. Cycling is popular, too. There are several places in Aix where you can rent bicycles at a reasonable price. Outside the city, cypress trees, vineyards and lavender fields provide a fairy-tale backdrop for activities including hiking and horseback riding. The major landmark of the area, Mont Sainte-Victoire, is a popular recreation area. Here, in the shadow of the mountain that inspired Cézanne, there are paths and hikes for outdoor enthusiasts of all levels.
In Aix, you can enjoy thermal baths like the ones celebrated by the Romans. Thermes Sextius is a modern, airy spa complex in the center of the city, and it was built on the site of ancient Roman baths. Here, you can unwind from your busy day with soothing thermal pools, hydrotherapy, massages and more. Remnants of the original baths are still visible beneath glass panels in the lobby.
