Aquae Sulis, shortly after they conquered the town, Romans built the city of Bath, then called Aquae Sulis. The site of the Roman baths has been used for personal hygiene since their construction. The size of the facilities at the site and the amount of time spent there indicate it was a destination for pilgrims as early as the 4th century AD. Excavations at the site have revealed the remains of more than 40 structures. The Romans believed that the hot springs had medicinal properties and thousands of people came from across the Roman Empire to bathe there. The size and scope of the spa complex has led to its designation as a World Heritage Site. The Romans thought the site was a place of healing and rejuvenation, a place of power. The site remains a fitting place for relaxation and rejuvenation.

hen it’s time to move on, London is your departure and your arrival. It is the most visited city in the world, if not the most loved. The city’s charm and allure lie in the mix of the old and the new, the traditional and the modern, the polite and the provocative. It’s a city where history and culture are woven into the fabric of daily life, and where every street corner tells a story. Whether you’re strolling through the trendy neighborhoods of Shoreditch and Hackney, exploring the iconic sights of Trafalgar Square and Westminster, or simply enjoying a cup of coffee at one of the city’s many charming cafes, London is a place that truly has something for everyone.
